PACIFIC MAIL'S RECORD

Vice President and General Manager Schwerin of the Pacific Mail Steamship Company has issued his annual report of the company's business during the last year. The receipts for the company's year ending 1906 amounted to $5,724,337, against $5,775,783 in 1905. The expenses in 1906 were $4,895,356, against $4,480,771 in 1905. The net earnings of the company for the twelve months ending in 1906 are $828,981, as against $1,295,012 last year.

Under the heavy appropriations Manager Schwerin puts down $148,547 for losses in the San Francisco fire and for repairs $397,549. The total under this head is $546,096. The surplus at the end of the year was $282,885, against $127,656 in 1905.

In his summary Manager Schwerin explains to the stockholders that the receipts from the operations of steamers decreased $79,995, or 1.43 per cent. This decrease resulted from a diminution of traffic following the cessation of hostilities between Russia and Japan, the resumption of service last November by the Toyo Kisen Kaisha, the opening of additional competitive lines, the Chinese boycott of American goods and a loss of traffic incident to the San Francisco fire. Receipts from all other sources increased $28,459. This left a net decrease in receipts of $51,446, or .89 per cent.
